

Mercury Emission Phase-Down Strategy

Table of Contents

1. Executive Summary	1
1.1 Origins and Scope of this Report	1
1.2 Recommended actions, grouped by sector	2
2. Goal	7
3. Background	7
3.1 Origins and Scope of this Report	7
3.2 The Need for Mercury Emissions Reduction	8
3.3 Sources of Mercury	10
3.3.1 Sources of Mercury in the Global Environment
3.3.2 Sources of Mercury in Deposition in North America
3.3.3 Mercury Deposition to the Great Lakes Region
3.3.4 Emissions Inventory for the Great Lakes States
3.3.5 Conclusion: Sources of Mercury to the Great Lakes
3.4 Expected Changes in Mercury Emissions and Deposition
3.4.1 Expected Changes in Nationwide Mercury Emissions
3.4.2 Impacts of Possible Future Changes in Emissions on Mercury Deposition
3.4.3 Potential Global Benefits of Mercury Emissions Reduction within the Great Lakes States
3.5 Overview of State and Federal Efforts to Limit Mercury Emissions
4. Selection of Mercury-Emitting Sectors	12
4.1 Criteria for Selecting Emission Sources	12
4.2 Priority Emission Sources	12
4.3 Mercury Emission Sources Not Addressed	12
5. Emission Sources	13
5.1 Source Sector 1	13
--background
--processes that cause this sector emit mercury?
--sector mercury emissions, nationally, within Great Lakes states
--control approaches
--existing and prospective federal regulation
--state regulation
--state and federal voluntary programs affecting emissions from this sector
-- recommendations/suggestions/options for state action
5.2 Source Sector 2	19
5.3 Source Sector 3	26
6. Crosscutting Strategies to Address All Mercury Emission Sources	60
7.1 Permitting Approaches for New and Modified Sources	60
7.2 TMDL Implementation Plans	61
7.3 Other	61
8. Implementation and Tracking Progress	66

8.1 Track Progress on Implementation	67
8.2 Identify Implementation Priorities	67
